

Click!

Michael McCarthy | Photo: Kate Warren | December 6, 2013

2

0

Scale is a powerful thing. And so is rollerblading underneath one of the most ambitious contemporary art exhibits of the fall.

When
6:57pm
10.29.13

Where Corcoran Gallery of Art

Like many disciples of modern art, photographer Kate Warren was thrilled to attend the Corcoran Gallery of Art's private opening of Mia Feuer's exhibit, An Unkindness, which focuses on oil's impact on the planet. Feuer is the first DC-based artist featured during the Corcoran's Now series. "It's refreshing to see an artist stand for something she believes in," says Warren, who used a Nikon D600 with a 24-70 mm lens for the shot. "The skating rink was an incredible way for gallery patrons to interact with the work, breaking the traditional fourth wall of sanctity within an institutional art gallery." Warren notes she wanted to capture the scale of Feuer's sculpture and the gathering crowd embracing the artist's premise. "People were excited by the work," she says. "Many more than I would have guessed took off their stilettos and strapped on skates!"

email address

/dc/digital-edition

/dc/events

thu.	26	THU	DEC	26
fri.	27
sat.	28
		NOW at the Corcoran – Mia Feuer: An Unkindness /dc/events/now-the-corcoran-mia-feuer-unkindness Corcoran Gallery of Art - 500 Seventeenth Street, NW, Washington, DC
sun.	29
mon.	30
tue.	31
wed.	1
thu.	2

View all events >> /dc/event

GIVE THE GIFT OF STYLE
personal styling gift certificates special occasion styling • gift shopping & more

ALISON BESHAI STYLING

Now Playing

/dc/videos/behind-the-scenes-zachary-quinto

Anytime. Anywhere.
Add all of Modern Luxury's titles to your iPad or iPhone newsstand.
GET THEM NOW >>